

The first step to modeling meaningful language for our kids is to determine what they are interested in. We all learn more, and have more fun, when we are talking about something that interests us.

When I watch my child play what does he play with?

- _____
- _____
- _____

What is my child paying attention to? What does she look at, what is he listening to? What part of this activity is so fun for him?

- _____
- _____
- _____